Erste Bank der oesterreichischen Sparkassen AG

The date of this Pricing Supplement is 22 April 2002

This Pricing Supplement, under which the Notes described herein (the “Notes”) are issued, is supplemental to, and should be read in conjunction with, the Offering Circular (the “Offering Circular”) dated 29 June 2001 issued in relation to the €10,000,000,000 Debt Issuance Programme of Erste Bank der oesterreichischen Sparkassen AG in respect of Notes issued thereunder. Terms defined in the Offering Circular have the same meaning in this Pricing Supplement. The Notes will be issued on the terms of this Pricing Supplement read together with the Offering Circular. The Issuer accepts responsibility for the information contained in this Pricing Supplement which, when read together with the Offering Circular, contains all information that is material in the context of the issue of the Notes.

This Pricing Supplement does not constitute, and may not be used for the purposes of, an offer of, or an invitation by or on behalf of anyone to subscribe or purchase any of the Notes.

No rights are conferred on any person under the Contracts (Rights of Third Parties) Act 1999 to enforce any term of the Notes, but this does not affect any right or remedy of any person which exists or is available apart from that Act.

The Austrian Ministry for Consumer Protection has set up a private organisation (“Verein”) which will assist customers (who qualify as consumers) when making claims against banks in Austria. This organisation should in particular deal with cases in which - according to allegations by Austrian consumer protection associations and the Ministry for Consumer Protection - consumers may be entitled to claims arising from interest and/or fees paid in excess of what would have been deemed appropriate according to applicable consumer protection provisions. Whether and to what extent such claims are justified depends on various legal issues which to date have not been solved by the courts. Hence it is not possible to give any reasonable estimate as to the extent to which such claims may lead to repayments to consumers by Austrian banks. This holds true also for Erste Bank. As with most other Austrian banks, Erste Bank has for the last few years been confronted with such claims by individual customers. Erste Bank has adopted a policy to discuss and review individual claims and to seek a mutually acceptable solution for each individual customer. Neither the number of such requests nor the amounts involved have increased significantly lately.

Another organisation is presently about to be established by the Austrian Banking Industry for out-of-court redress for the settlement of consumer disputes (“Schlichtungsstelle”). This institution will be modelled on similar institutions in other EU and OECD countries.

Except as disclosed in the Offering Circular and herein, there has been no significant change in the financial or trading position or prospects of the Issuer or of the Group since 31 December 2000 and no material adverse change in the financial position or prospects of the Issuer or of the Group since 31 December 2000.

- (3) it has complied with and will comply with all applicable provisions of the FSMA with respect to anything done by it in relation to the Notes in, from or otherwise involving the United Kingdom.”

The section titled “The Austrian Banking System – Regulation and Supervision” contained on page 42 of the Offering Circular dated 29 June 2001 is replaced by the following:

The structure of the regulation and supervision of the Austrian banking system is set forth in a number of statutes, including the Financial Market Supervision Act (Finanzmarktaufsichtsgesetz), the Banking Act, the National Bank Act 1984, the Savings Bank Act 1979 (Sparkassengesetz) and the Mortgage Bond Act 1927, each as amended.

The Financial Market Supervision Act of 2001 transfers the responsibility for the supervision of banks, insurance companies, security exchanges and pension funds to the Financial Market Authority (“FMA”, Finanzmarktaufsichtsbehörde) which became operating on 1 April 2002. The Banking Act contains most of the essential regulations for “credit institutions”, as banks are designated. In addition to setting out capital adequacy rules, the Banking Act imposes various other requirements, restrictions and regulations on Austrian banks, including reporting and liquidity requirements, restrictions on participations and large exposures, and regulations regarding internal controls and internal audits, deposit guarantees, money laundering and customer protection. In addition, savings banks are subject to the Savings Bank Act 1979, which lays down additional rules for the savings bank sector in relation to issues such as legal structure and sector unity. The National Bank Act 1984 regulates the position of the Austrian National Bank in the system of European Central Banks, and the Mortgage Bond Act 1927 governs bonds backed by mortgages. Under the Banking Act, regulation and supervision of Austrian banks and of the branches of foreign banks in Austria is the responsibility of the FMA assisted by the Austria National Bank. The FMA may take a variety of actions under the Banking Act to supervise banks on a comprehensive basis. In order to enable the FMA to fulfil its obligations, banks must, among other things, prepare monthly interim balance sheets and quarterly profit and loss statements, and submit annual audit reports.

Financial Market Authority (Finanzmarktaufsichtsbehörde)

The FMA became operating on 1 April 2002. It is subject to supervision by the Ministry of Finance and is headed by a two-member management board. The board members are nominated by the Ministry of Finance and the Austrian National Bank and appointed by the Austrian Government. A supervisory board consisting of eight members, thereof two non-voting, approves the FMA's budget, financial statements, top employees and other important matters. The expenses of the FMA are borne by the supervised banks, companies and funds whilst the Federal Government bears only a minor portion thereof.”
