As of 1 August 2009 Birte Quitt (38) is to head up Branch Networks at Erste Bank, a position previously covered by Peter Bosek in addition to his duties as managing board member responsible for retail clients. A qualified banker from Lüneburg she was previously responsible for the sales management of retail banking at Commerzbank.

In addition to working at Deutsche Bank, Birte Quitt studied business economics in Frankfurt and the United Kingdom as well as gathering corporate banking experience in Asia. In 1998 she switched from her position as a corporate client adviser to Dresdner Bank. From 2002 she headed up the Credit Division at the bank whilst also being responsible for developing new quality standards for sales. A skilled banker, she most recently re-aligned the strategy for the retail business at Commerzbank and optimised the operational support for branches. Quitt is married and now lives in her new, adopted abode of Vienna.
