

“Brokerjet dividend app”: the dividend master at a glance

08.05.2014

Brokerjet is the first online broker to start offering a free “dividend app”, containing key information on the companies providing the highest dividends in Europe and the USA. All figures from the ATX, DAX, MDAX, SMI, EuroStoxx, and selected figures from the S&P500 with relevant dividend returns or sufficient market capitalisation can be retrieved, showing divided returns and payouts (gross) from the last 3 years, the latest company information, and charts. “You can see which company last paid out the highest dividends, and how the share prices behaved, at a glance,” explains Brokerjet CMO Beatrix Schläffer, who adds that “we are the first in Central Europe to offer an app like this.”

Users can break down companies by region, country and industry and the database is updated in real time. The “Brokerjet dividend app” is available for free from the app store, and is the second mobile application after the “Brokerjet app”.

Brokerjet customers trade directly

The “dividend app” also allows the online broker’s customers to trade shares of interest to them via a link to the “Brokerjet app”. “It works in just a few clicks, saving time and perhaps even money,” says Schläffer. The “Brokerjet app” has already been available for iPhone since July 2013, and Android users can now also take advantage of it. The app provides information on latest portfolio developments, and assists with the most important trading functions, making it possible to trade securities at 28 international stock exchanges and numerous issuers at any time.
