How are SDG Contributions calculated?

EAM calculates the SDG contributions of each company invested in the respective investment fund. The calculations are based on the revenue shares of all activities of the companies included in the investment fund that make a positive and/or negative contribution to the 17 SDGs. Since certain activities can contribute to more than one SDG, overlaps and double counting are possible. The focus on companies means that little to no information is available for bond funds that invest predominantly in government bonds. Investments in government bonds are therefore currently not considered in the calculation of SDG contributions.

Based on the calculated SDG contribution of each issuer and its relative portfolio weight, the overall SDG contribution is calculated. The largest contributors to the Sustainable Development Goals are identified.

The data used to calculate the SDG contributions is collected and regularly updated by the external data provider ISS ESG.
